2005-2006 SPECIAL EVENTS

Tennessee Governor Phil Bredesen was on campus September 1, 2005 for the Wilson County Imagination Library Kick-Off. Governor Bredesen spoke about the importance of reading to all children, and he also read a book to the local school children who had gathered for the event.

WELCOME TO THE 23 RD ANNUAL
PHOENIX BALL IN THE
FLOYD-BAXTER
BALLROOM

The 2006 Phoenix Ball was held on campus in the Floyd-Baxter Ballroom (Dallas Floyd Recreation Center) on June 3rd.

Cumberland was lucky enough to host a dinner in honor of Miss America 2005, Deidre Downs on December 5, 2005. Miss Downs met with students, faculty and staff and even lit the traditional CU Christmas tree!

A new event was added this year that promises to be an annual happening on campus. In order to get graduating students excited about Commencement months before the actual event, Cumberland, along with Jostens hosted "Grad Finale." This event allowed graduating students to check on their paperwork, order invitations and class rings, and meet members of the Alumni Office to ensure that they stay active as Alumni.

The rules of soccer are very simple, basically it is
1. if it moves, kick it. If it doesn't move, kick it until it does.

Student Portraits

Labry School of Business

For nearly thirty years, Cumberland University has been educating people about the growing field of business. We as a school have always made a strong effort to evolve with the business world in every way possible. In the spring of 2002, the Labry School of Business made a huge leap toward the future. With the newly constructed Labry Hall and the installation of a state-of-the-art Wireless Network, we have been able to train students to the more modern use of technology in business. We also understand the need to expose students to the multiple sectors of business such as; Accounting, Management, Marketing, the social science of Economics, Entrepreneurship, Small and Corporate Business, and of course, Computer Information Systems. One of the main goals of the Labry School of Business is to gear our education to the services sector of business as opposed to the old-fashioned manufacturing sector that was taught in the past. As a school, the faculty as well as the students takes a vow to the continuous education on the growing trends in the field of business. It is our pledge to be up-date on all developments in every area of the business world.

Nursing Education... The Way It Should Be
The Jeanette Rudy School of Nursing

Today's health care delivery system requires nurses with a strong foundation in liberal arts along with the discipline-specific knowledge of the nursing process. At Cumberland University, we educate professional nurses who can deliver increasingly complex care in a variety of settings, to diverse patient populations. Faculty in the School of Nursing demonstrate a broad range of experience and interests that serve to strengthen student growth and development.

Nursing has often been described as both an art and a science. Nursing science refers to our knowledge base and the art of nursing is often viewed as the creative application of that knowledge base to individuals, families, and communities. Few disciplines are as demanding as nursing--none are more rewarding.

The Jeanette Rudy School of Nursing at Cumberland University is nationally accredited by the National League for Nursing Accrediting Commission and is approved by the Tennessee Board of Nursing.

School of Education

The School of Education offers undergraduate and graduate courses that fulfill the professional education requirements for teacher licensure in both elementary and secondary education and that enable students to develop competencies and skills needed by beginning teachers. Effective teachers must have a thorough knowledge of subject matter, as well as a complete understanding of the principles of student growth and development, of diverse learning styles, and of effective teaching methods. The combination of the General Education Core (GEC), major requirements, and the professional education core curriculum assures that students are prepared with a broad background in the liberal arts and sciences and with a mastery of the subject matter in the major teaching field.

School of Liberal Arts & Sciences

The School of Liberal Arts and Sciences equips the graduate with a well-rounded education for the service-oriented society of the twenty-first century. Recent surveys of CEO's in the United States have repeatedly shown that they seek three things in today's graduates: people who can think; people who can make decisions; and people who can communicate. The integrative and interdisciplinary approach taken in the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences, while providing for concentration in an academic area, is designed to develop these very skills.

Every graduate in the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences has multiple opportunities for experiential learning. These experiences include short-term opportunities and internships. Students learn by doing and experiencing, as well as by reading and researching. Varied experiences move learning from the theoretical to the actual and practical. They open students' minds to whole new ways of thinking, seeing things, and integrating knowledge. Such learning helps the student better understand himself, his society, his history, and his culture. It provides the student with practical understandings and skills for entry into the changing job market environment, as well as providing an excellent base for graduate studies leading to specialization in such fields as law, medicine, business, human relations, politics, social service, and ministry.

School of Music & Arts

The goals for the School of Music and Art are to help students become better oral communicators, appreciate great works of music and the arts, and to experience actively the artistic creative process through GEC courses as well as upper division courses in the majors; to prepare students for professional careers and/or graduate schools; and to provide a source of enrichment for lifelong contemplation and learning. The School's theoretical and practical approach within a liberal arts curriculum strives to stimulate the physical, emotional, intellectual and aesthetic development of students.

Dedication

Dr. Richard Henderson

In Remembrance, Honor, and Dedication of Dr. Richard Arnold Henderson

Dr. Henderson was a wonderful professor, colleague, role model, and inspiration at Cumberland University. He had so much passion for what he taught, and wanted us all to share that passion with him. His presence may no longer be with us, but the knowledge that he bestowed upon us will always live on.

-Tai Gregory

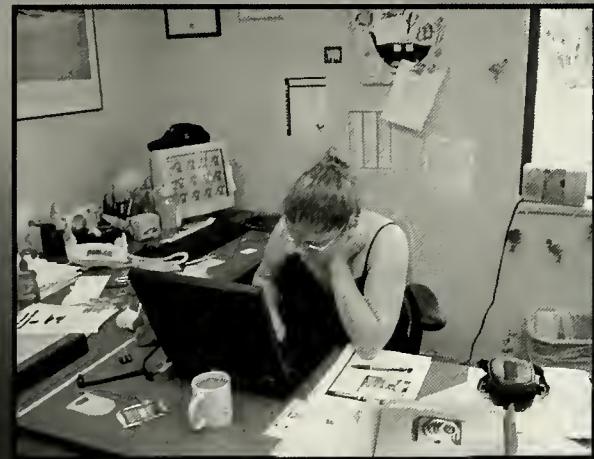

Our Many Thanks

Jennifer,

I would like to say a very special thank you to you for all your hard work and determination in creating this yearbook. And I would also like to congratulate you on its completion. You have been basically the only person to do a majority of the work! Great Job! We love you!

Libby

What to say about someone who has given so much of herself to make this yearbook come to fruition? You have worked tirelessly and have been adamant about seeing it through. Thank you so much for all you have done! We could not have done it without you! We love you, and we'll miss you this Spring!

Lane
